Sumatran Tiger Cub Makes His Debut at Disney's Animal Kingdom

This past January 29th was a big day at Disney's Animal Kingdom. Bakso, a Sumatran tiger cub born at the park in September 2024, made his official onstage debut on Maharajah Jungle Trek. Guests can now visit the trek to watch him continue to grow alongside his mom, Sohni. Bakso may not be in his habitat during all operating hours as his keepers are allowing him to choose when he wants to join his mom in the habitat.

Over the past several months, keepers have watched him reach important milestones. From his very first check-up to his adventures with mom – he has grown up before their very eyes. Even fans watched as he grew, played, learned and snuggled with mom. Since announcing his birth, fans have been able to tune in weekly to watch a little bit of his time backstage on the Disney Parks YouTube channel in a series titled Tiger TV Tuesdays. Every Tuesday, Bakso got a little bit bigger and a lot smarter as he got ready for his big debut day, today!

With less than 600 Sumatran tigers left in the wild, Bakso is just one example of Disney's work with the AZA that has helped strengthen the critically endangered Sumatran tiger population and the genetics of the species worldwide. While the health and wellbeing of the animals in our care is incredibly important to us, caring for their wild counterparts is key. For more information on Disney's Animal Kingdom visit WDWNews.com.
